Mr. Grafton to Mr. Alderman.

EDITOR LEADER:
Will you again kindly allow me space in your columns to reply to Mr. E. R.
Alderman's "A question of strange forgetfulness," in the Register of March 21st.

After quoting that part of my letter in your issue of the 21st referring to a gentleman from Columbus calling on me, he says:

"The forgetfulness in this is amazing! The gentlemen did not come to see Mr.
Grafton and would have gone from town without seeing him, but for the suggestion from Col. Nye, Mr. Stinson and myself that he was called, which was done, not the next day, but at once."

I do not think Mr. Alderman intentionally misrepresents me in what he says, but he is wholly wrong. He refers to a gentleman not from Columbus to see me, but to a gentleman from Mansfield who came to see him, Col.
Nye and others. What he says concerning the Mansfield gentleman is correct in every particular. In my letter I refer to a gentleman from Columbus and what I say regarding him is absolutely correct and he will verify if necessary.

Again he says referring to the conversation I claim to have had with him:
"Mr. Grafton has never spoken to me on the subject but once in his life which was weeks before, viz: Sunday, Nov. 3, while on our way home from church in the presence of another."

In his usual direct manner he named his purpose and wanted my name.
My answer was that it was early to be making pledges for any one. Urged for a "yes" or "no," I replied, "I might want to be a delegate myself." This reply was made solely to avoid a refusal or a commitment. My idea then was that some one more closely identified with Gov. McKinley in the past should be the man and not from any objections personally or politically to Mr. Grafton.

Regarding this I simply reiterate what I have said. My questions and his answers were literally as given in my letter. His remark that it was "early to be making pledges to anyone" was made after the conversation I have quoted. The time he names is correct, and "weeks before" the Mansfield gentleman showed up. I ask Mr.
Alderman in all fairness to correct his story of "A question of forgetfulness," as the above on my part may warrant.

Now as to the last part of his story: Col. Nye is out of town, but nothing is more certain than that his recollection will not agree with Mr. Grafton's.
Col. Nye can nor will have no recollection concerning my conversation with Mr. Alderman or my interview with "my gentleman from Columbus," as he knows nothing about it. We will all agree to the correctness of the interview with the gentleman from Mansfield. J. H. GRAFTON.

BEN FRANKLIN'S BIG HEAD.

How He Wore His Wig in His Pocket at the French Court.

The difficulties encountered recently by the lineal descendants of that great man, statesman, patriot and everything else that men properly hold in estimation—Benjamin Franklin—in having themselves enrolled among the Colonial Dames, recall an anecdote of him, says the Washington Post, embalmed in the family records of the sage of Monticello, but which, so far as the writer knows, has never been published. When about to present himself for the first time at the court of Versailles he was informed by the master of ceremonies that a wig was a sine qua non. Now, his head was so large that no ordinary wig would begin to fit it, and the situation was embarrassing in the extreme.
However, one was found sufficiently large to pass him through the ante-chambers, after which he was permitted to remove the ridiculous conventional appendage and place it in his ample pocket, whence it never again emerged to public gaze.

Early Piety.

D. L. Moody, the evangelist, told a story in Philadelphia recently about his life before his conversion, when a boy of 17. He said that while he was a pretty bad boy in his unregenerate days, deep in the follies and errors of the world, he never broke so far away from his early religious training as to forget to say his prayers every night. "I used to sleep with my brother," he said, "and if either one of us happened to jump into bed without first getting on his knees, the other would swear at him vigorously and kick him out on the floor."

Meat for Russians.

The officials intrusted with the arrangement of the details of the czar's coronation in Moscow this spring have ordered 15,000 hogsheads of meat, which is to be made of pure honey. It is an old Russian custom to regale the people with meat for three days during the festivities at the ancient capital.

New Parisian Food.

Camel's flesh is the latest addition to the Parisian bill of fare, Algerian butchers undertaking to provide the supply.
The meat is said to taste like beef, though white like veal. The hump is considered a great delicacy by the Arabs.

THE POLITICIAN.

Secretary Hoke Smith got a severe raking over in the Senate last week for his failure to carry out the law for the opening of the Uncompaghere Indian reservation, in Utah, to the public. Senator Cannon, of Utah, started the ball with his resolution directing Secretary Smith to carry out the law and his speech showing that the "hold up" was in the interest of a few wealthy men. Later his remarks were endorsed by Senators Wolcott, of Colorado, Vest, of Missouri, and others. The last named Senator took occasion to give Mr. Cleveland a few whacks over the head for his recent remarks about the western people and his acting as though the people of that section were in a condition of pupillage and did not know their own rights and their own interests. He said that if Mr. Cleveland "will interrupt hunting ducks in North Carolina and silver Democrats in Kentucky long enough to come out west we will show him a God-fearing, self-respecting, law-abiding people; we will show him churches, in which there is real and unaffected piety."

The movement to further delay action upon the Cuban resolutions by sending them back to conference for the purpose of changing the wording was squelched when the Senate committee on Foreign Relations instructed Chairman Sherman to push the report of the committee in favor of accepting the House resolutions as a substitute for those adopted by the Senate to a vote at the earliest possible moment.

The House had quite a lively debate on the resolution censuring Ambassador Bayard, this week, but the House had made up its mind on that subject.

Among the political prophets is heard the voice of one Campbell, Ohio, who was last fall buried by Ohio's big Republican majority. He has crawled out of the debris and gone to Washington to warn the Democratic party of the death that will follow the split which everybody is predicting to occur at the Chicago convention. Prophet Campbell after imploring the Democratic party to send delegates to Chicago who will not bolt the ticket or platform of the Democratic National Convention ends his tale of woe by saying:
"But bolt or split now, and we are undone for all time. The Democracy is destroyed forever, and its site sown with salt. It will live only as a memory, like the Whigs, the Federalists, and other combinations of a past that is far or near." It is evident that Mr. Campbell will be able to say "I-told-you-so" to the Democrats a few months hence. Mr. Campbell does not even promise the Democrats a victory either this year or in the near future, as a reward for restraining their inclination to bolt, but says his advice must be followed as the "only hope of party continuation."

A gentleman speaking of the latest move of the administration to keep Democrats in office by a further extension of the civil service rules said: "I wonder why they don't make a clean job of it and include the members of the cabinet and the President and Vice President. It is all right to have the men and women who do the merely clerical work of the government protected by rules making their retention dependent upon their work, but it is nonsense to suppose that any administration is going to allow positions which have to do with shaping and carrying out certain lines of policy upon which the success or failure of the administration depends to be filled by men who are known to be politically opposed to it."

A Democratic Senator is credited with having said of the Carlisle boom for the Democratic Presidential nomination: "Carlisle is being used by Cleveland to draw the fire of those opposed to his administration, and, when he has been figuratively shot to pieces by the free silver Democrats and the goldbugs, Cleveland will step forward as the only man left to save the democracy from extinction, and will announce his willingness to run for a third term, not because he thinks he can be elected but as a patriotic sacrifice to save the life of the Democratic party."

It will be some time before Representative McMillan, of Tenn., again attempts to introduce an intoxicated Cleveland Democrat to a silver Democratic Senator. His last attempt was in the dining room of a Washington restaurant. He steered Mr. Don. M.
Dickinson, who was Postmaster General during a portion of the first Cleveland administration, and who was upon this occasion loaded up to his whiskers with something which made him forget his good manners, over to a table at which Senator Pugh, of Ala., was sitting. Although Mr. Pugh has been in the Senate since 1880 he had never met Mr. Dickinson. "Senator Pugh," said Mr. McMillan, "permit me to introduce the Hon. Don M. Dickinson." Before Senator Pugh could reply Dickinson blurted out: "I don't know Senator Pugh, and don't want to know him. Pugh is an old fool." Senator Pugh is 70 years old, but turning to Dickinson he said, rising to his feet evidently prepared to fight: "I consider you a scoundrel and don't recognize you as a gentleman." That ended the episode, as friends interfered and Dickinson was put to bed.

FAIR ENOUGH!

All we ask is a comparison of qualities and prices. Be fair to yourself, don't squander your hard earned dollars. For years we have sold all wool suits, all colors, for five and six dollars, and all wool pants, all colors, for $1.50, $1.75 and $2.00. That's nothing new, and you should be posted on such matters. How are you to find out? Why, look around (we encourage that) and use your own judgment, or if you can't trust to that try an old established house noted for reliability and they'll deal with you honestly. Look around and get prices, then come to us and we'll be satisfied with your decision. "Honest
